Deadlock Continues In Long Steel Strike

Negotiators Plan Session This Morning

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel negotiators agreed Friday to hold an unusual Saturday morning session in their efforts to end the 80-day old nationwide steel strike.

The decision to hammer away again Saturday starting at 10 a.m. closely followed a pessimistic statement by United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald that "I am not hopeful" for an early settlement in the costly dispute.

In a joint statement read by R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, the negotiators said, "We are exerting every possible effort to resolve our problems through collective bargaining."

The statement, following two sessions, said that both parties felt it would be best not to engage in public discussions at this time.

Some "Give And Take"

"We are fully aware of the great public interest in this situation," the statement said, "particularly the desire that it be solved at the earliest possible moment."

Sources close to negotiations said there had been some "give and take" at the bargaining table since the two sides met with President Eisenhower in Washington on Wednesday and were told to break the long stalemate.

High industry sources reported the 12 major steel companies negotiating still are insisting on changes in contract language to give management more control over working conditions in the mills.

The reference was to an earlier proposal by the industry for an eight-point program aimed at spelling out so-called local conditions and practices that vary in each company and each plant. McDonald has been adamant in his refusal to consider such changes. He called the industry proposals "a union-busting move."

Average $3.11 An Hour

The union has been pressing for an estimated 15-cent hourly package wage hike. The U. S. Labor Department reported steelworkers were earning an average $3.11 an hour in June.

One industry source said as late as Friday afternoon that any economic improvements given the half-million striking steelworkers must be contingent on changes in mill working conditions to permit more efficient operations.

"The industry wants a settlement on a noninflationary basis. And it wants it out of Taft-Hartley action," another said.

President Eisenhower did not say so but he strongly implied that he would send the striking workers back to the mills for an 80-day cooling off period under terms of the Taft-Hartley law if the negotiators do not show some progress by Oct. 8.

Gasoline Tank Fire Finally Contained

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI)—A two and one half million gallon gasoline tank, for 24 hours a roaring mass of flames, became a blackened, buckled hulk Friday with tongues of flames still crackling about it.

Nine persons were injured in the pre-dawn explosion Thursday. Authorities said cause of the blast was still undetermined. All nine casualties were Negro residents of three small frame houses demolished by the explosion.

The fire was finally contained by firemen and oil fire experts who pumped foam into the smoldering tank from both top and bottom.

Du Pont-GM Ruling

With reporters waiting to enter federal courtroom at Chicago, Judge Walter J. La Buy enters carrying momentous decision in Du Pont-General Motors stock case. Judge La Buy ruled that Du Pont can end its close financial tie with GM without disposing of its nearly 3 1/2 billion dollars worth of stock in GM. Baltimore Bank Holdup Suspect Arrested In Bar

BALTIMORE (AP)—A gunman robbed a branch bank of about $4,000 Friday. A few minutes later, police picked up a man whose pockets were stuffed with bills.

Police said the man in custody escaped Tuesday night from St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D.C., and would be charged with the Baltimore robbery as well as a $3,500 robbery last Wednesday at the Commerce Savings and Trust in Washington.

The Marine branch of the Fidelity-Baltimore National Bank, robbed shortly after noon, is on the eastern outskirts of the business district.

Bank teller Anthony Zelaznicki, 22, said most of the employees and customers didn't know a holdup was going on when a man walked up to his window with a newspaper over his arm. He gave Zelaznicki a note which said:

"There is a 38 starting you in the stomach. Place all the big bills on the counter and be quick about it."

Zelaznicki reached into the cash drawer and passed across piles of $10s, $20s, $5s and $1s. Altogether, the bandit got $3,690.

The man in custody was arrested at a tavern a few blocks from the bank by three policemen who saw him getting out of a cab. Patrolmen Charles Cooks, George Hein and Benedict Maciejczyk said the man was about to sit down at the bar when they made the arrest.

They said they found $4,150 in the man's pockets but no gun or newspaper. The arrest was made while cars loaded with police and FBI agents swarmed over the neighborhood looking for the robber.

'Beautiful Sight'

Jet Races Moon Shadow, Photographs Sun Eclipse

FUERTEVENTURA, Canary Islands (UPI)—A 1,000-mile-an-hour jet plane raced the shadow of the moon for nearly eight minutes Friday taking unique photographs of a total eclipse of the sun from nine miles above the earth.

The plane, an American F101B Voodoo, streaked through the sky in near total darkness high above clouds that obscured the eerie celestial display from ground observers in the Canary Islands.

The crew of a U.S. B47 jet bomber from Spain, which accompanied the picture-taking jet, described the eclipse from the air as "a beautiful sight."

Clouds spoiled the view from the northeast United States, but the Cambridge Air Force Re-

Top Test Pilot Survives Ordeal

GARLINGTON, Scotland (AP)—Almost given up for dead, a top test pilot staggered up a Scottish beach Friday 30 hours after he bailed out of a 1,500 m.p.h. jet plane that crashed into the sea.

Johnny Squier, 39, and his Lightning plane vanished on a test flight above the Irish Sea Thursday. Planes and ships failed to find him.

Friday Squier paddled weakly ashore here in a dinghy ejected with him from the plane. He limped half a mile to the schoolhouse and told Miss Jocelyn Donaldson: "I've just come out of the sea."

Friday night, Squier rested in Miss Donaldson's house, fed with hot Scottish broth.

"He's safe and well now," Miss Donaldson said. "He's just exhausted and a little shocked. But he wasn't injured in the crash."

Capital Punishment Restored In Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—One week after the assassination of Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike, the government Friday restored the death penalty for murder.

Bandaranaike had made life imprisonment the maximum sentence, by administrative decree, after Ceylon's Parliament split on a bill to abolish capital punishment.

The death penalty was restored by the Cabinet of the new prime minister, Wijayananda Dahanayake, under the state of emergency imposed after Bandaranaike was shot down last Friday by a gunman clad in the robes of a Buddhist monk.

search Center at Bedford, Mass., bounced signals off the moon and picked up some "very good" data on radiation with its radio telescope.

Dr. Donald H. Menzel, director of Harvard Observatory, said the most remarkable feature of the moon shadow was a "double wing corona."

It was the first total eclipse in more than five years. The next one will sweep across Alaska in July, 1963.

The bomber pilot, Col. Kenneth E. Marts, of Wichita, Kans., said he flew at about 35,000 feet at a speed of 500 miles an hour.

"The sky was deep purple," he said. "The moon was deep black with an aura of light around it. The stars were out."

Shippers Balk At Talks Until Men Return

Signs Indicate Dock Strike May Last For Weeks

NEW YORK (AP)—A deadlock between employers and longshoremen gave signs Friday that the two-day dock strike gripping ports from Maine to Texas will last at least three weeks.

The New York Shipping Assn. announced it would not negotiate with the International Longshoremen's Assn. until Oct. 15—the date to which the union originally agreed to extend the old contract—unless the men return to work before hand.

William V. Bradley, ILA president, insisted that the men would not return until they have a new contract. And a new contract must wait upon further negotiations.

Assurance Demanded

The shippers said further they would not negotiate until they get assurance from the union that dock workers here will carry out any agreement independent of action by longshoremen at other Atlantic Coast or Gulf ports.

Bradley originally agreed with the New York shippers to extend to Oct. 15, the old contract that expired Sept. 30 on being assured that any wage or other gains in a new pact would be retroactive to Oct. 1.

Southern longshoremen said their employers gave no such assurance and they began walking out early Thursday. The northern longshoremen then struck in support of the southern dockers.

85,000 On Strike

The strike of some 85,000 longshoremen has tied up cargo operations on about 200 freighters at a cost estimated by shippers at 20 million dollars a day.

During the negotiating prior to the strike, the union said it was willing to accept a three-year contract providing a 50-cent-an-hour package increase, including wages and benefits.

The New York Shipping Assn., representing 170 steamship and stevedoring firms, had offered 30 cents—20 the first year and 5 each the next two years.

Approximately 25,000 longshoremen in the port of New York have averaged $107.76 a week in pay.

British Parties Turn On Heat In Vote Campaign

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told voters Friday night to beware of giving power to a party with some members who are "almost Communist." It was a new tack in his election campaign against the opposition Labor party.

In a hard-hitting speech at nearby Watford, Macmillan pressed the claims of his Conservative government to represent Britain at East-West summit talks.

"The Labor party is deeply divided on every great question of defense and foreign policy," he said. "Some are practically fellow travelers, some almost Communist. Some are good patriots to the right. Some want a policy of unilateral disarmament, but some agree with you that you can only have it by staged disarmament under control."

He spoke as the campaign reached the 'hit-em-with-everything' stage and both parties accused each other of trickery.

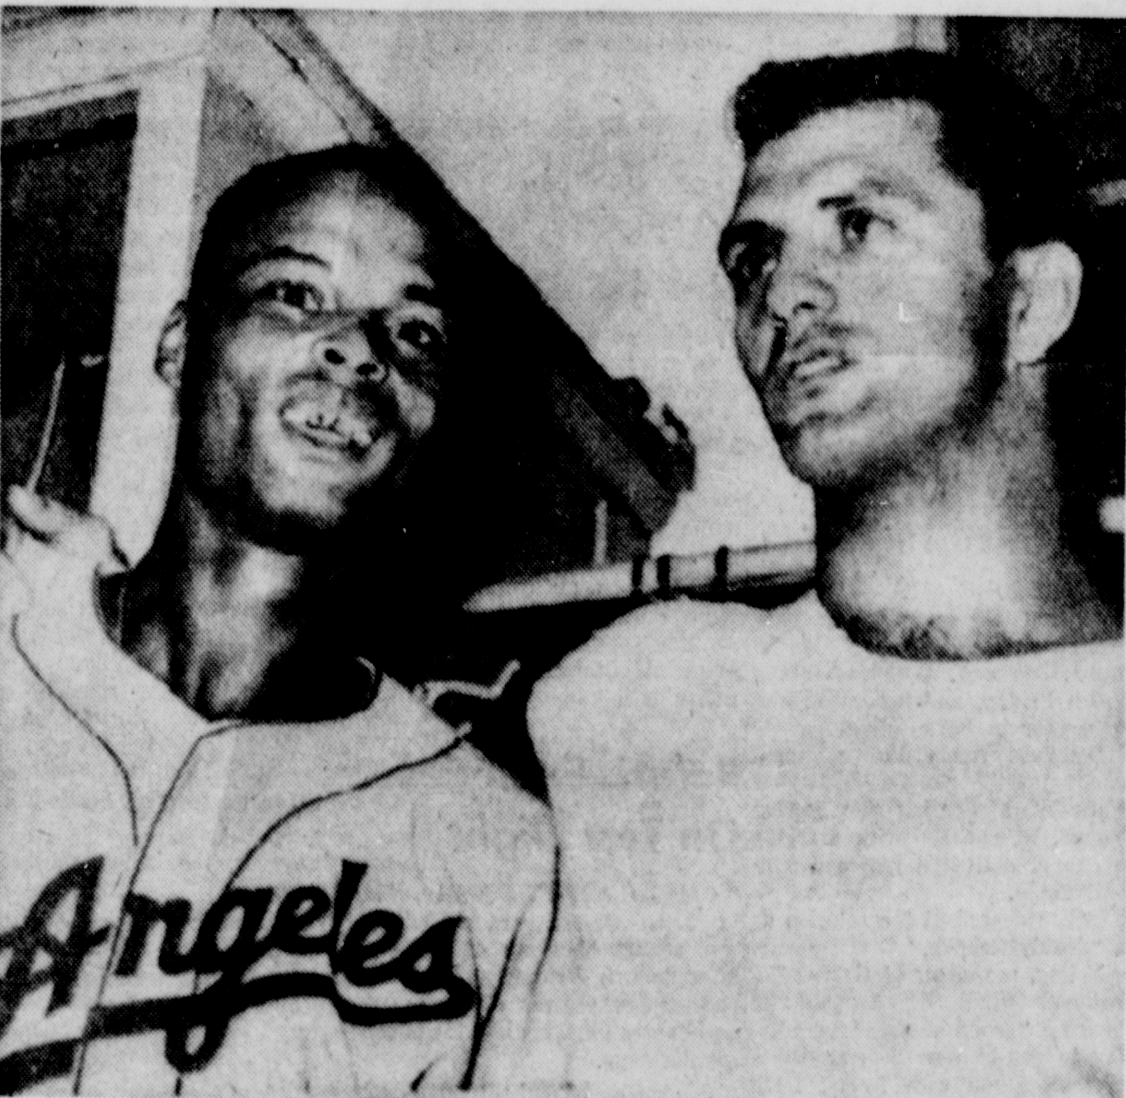

Morgan Phillips, Labor party secretary, issued a statement Friday containing a long list of alleged Conservative sins. The statement said Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government operates with the motto: "Fool the people."

Phillips told a news conference Labor candidates from now until next Thursday's polling are "going on the offensive in the biggest way possible."

Macmillan hit back with vigor in a speech at Stamford he blasted Laborite promises of pension benefits and tax cuts. The Conservatives estimate these measures would cost 300 million pounds—840 million dollars—a year and push the country into an inflationary spiral.

Two Perish In Okla. Floods; Hundreds Flee

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—About 1,000 persons were evacuated from their homes at Guthrie, 30 miles north of here Friday, as water on Cottonwood Creek stood two feet above flood stage. Guthrie was one of many northern Oklahoma floodlands communities threatened by overburdened streams.

Two deaths have been reported in the area. Cottonwood Creek stood at eight feet, highest in history, and was expected to crest at 10 feet before midnight at Guthrie, a city of 10,000.

Five inches of rain fell in an hour at Stillwater—home of Oklahoma State University—60 miles northeast of Oklahoma City. Stillwater, a city of 25,000 was cut off from auto traffic by high water and scores of families were taken to higher ground as two nearby lakes poured tons of water into streams flowing through the city. Oklahoma State University is located there.

The National Guard and Army reserves assisted in the evacuation move. Civil defense authorities called it Stillwater's worst flood.

About 20 families were evacuated at Enid, 90 miles north of here, and persons were forced from their homes at many communities along swollen streams.

Swedish Scandal

Convict Is Accused Of Photographing Nearly Nude Girls In Prison "Studio"

KARLSTAD, Sweden (AP)—A convict who has been running a purported school for models behind the bars stood accused Friday of photographing bare-bosomed girls in daring poses in the prison's visiting room.

Police Chief Anders Holmstrom said police have confiscated some of the pictures and are investigating.

Pornographic and indecent? Holmstrom said it will be up to a judge to decide.

How could there be such goings-on at austere Karlstad County Prison? A prison welfare officer explained: Visits are permitted in a private room without either bars or guards. The doors can be closed, though not locked. The

2-Headed Girl Lives One Day

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A two-headed girl born Thursday died Friday.

The child also had two hearts, two stomachs and two spines, a physician at Memorial Hospital reported. There was one pelvis and one torso.

The doctor said five such births had been reported in the world in the last five years. Twins failed to separate during the early stages of pregnancy, he said. The development was not Siamese twins, he explained, because the Siamese twins grow from one egg with two close centers of organization. Such was not the case here.

Rowdies Start Ecuador Riots; 2 Dead, 4 Hurt

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Two persons were killed and four injured in riots touched off by rowdies trying to strip scantily clad drum majorettes in Ecuador's largest city Thursday night.

A navy shore patrol unit came to the defense of parading teenagers who were being manhandled by hoodlums making lewd remarks. Some of the girls were nearly undressed before police and troops quelled the outbreak.

Soldiers fought the mob 2 1/2 hours, stepping in after national and civil police had been virtually routed.

A store owner reportedly shot and killed two looters among the crowds that used the occasion to break into shops. Witnesses said police and soldiers did not fire into the mob.

A police patrol car was overturned and gasoline soaked rags were tossed on it, but they did not burst into flame. Two of the injured were policemen. None of the parading girls suffered serious injury, except to dignity.

Teamster Union Sets Up Political Action Division

WASHINGTON (UPI)—James R. Hoffa's big Teamsters Union set up a Political Action Department Friday in an outright bid to rival the AFL-CIO as a political power.

The announced goal of the new Teamster department was to mobilize the union's 1,633,000 members during election campaigns. A spokesman said it probably would endorse presidential candidates.

The Teamsters, prime target of the Senate Rackets Committee and the labor reform law that stemmed from its investigation, also will "work toward a legislative program in Congress that would be beneficial" to the union's membership.

The department was ordered established by the union's 15-man executive board at a meeting which started Thursday night and continued into Friday's early morning hours.

The AFL-CIO, which ousted the Teamsters on corruption charges, long has engaged in political activities through its "committee on political education," or COPE. It usually supports Democratic candidates, plus a smattering of Republicans.

Surge In Polio Cases Tapers Off Slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U. S. Public Health Service reported seven new polio deaths Friday but said the nationwide surge in the number of cases tapered off slightly last week.

It said 496 new polio cases were reported for the week ending Sept. 26, of which 304 were paralytic. This was a slight decline from the previous peak week when 522 cases were reported, 332 of them paralytic.

A store owner reportedly shot and killed two looters among the crowds that used the occasion to break into shops. Witnesses said police and soldiers did not fire into the mob.

A police patrol car was overturned and gasoline soaked rags were tossed on it, but they did not burst into flame. Two of the injured were policemen. None of the parading girls suffered serious injury, except to dignity.

Even in liberal-minded Sweden, there were a lot of raised eyebrows. A spokesman for the Prison Board in Stockholm promised a full inquiry.

The name of the convict, serving an indefinite term for fraud, was withheld. This is in keeping with a general rule of Swedish police in the case of prisoners sentenced to less than one year or to an indefinite term.

The convict runs a mannequin school in Stockholm in absentia, Holmstrom said.

He branched out after incarceration here, advertising in Karlstad newspapers for girl pupils for training. He offered to pay their fare to and from Karlstad. Several girls responded.

All went well until a 16-year-old country girl answered one of his advertisements. She found the circumstances somewhat puzzling and queried police.

One thing more: The convict may wish he'd never made that promise in his ads to pay for the girls' transportation. He never paid them, Holmstrom said, and as a result is facing a new charge of fraud.

Must Give Up Voting Right, Judge Rules

Decision Follows High Court Finding Of Monopoly Trend

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal judge in a momentous decision ruled Friday that the Du Pont company may retain its 23 per cent stock interest in General Motors, but it cannot vote the shares or acquire more.

Voting rights must be surrendered to individual Du Pont stockholders.

Judge Walter J. La Buy of U.S. District Court made the ruling in compliance with a U.S. Supreme Court decision which found there was a tendency toward monopoly in the relationship between the two giant firms.

Du Pont and its family holding companies own 63 million shares of GM stock—worth nearly 3 1/2 billion dollars. Du Pont is GM's largest supplier of paints and finishes.

Under La Buy's decision, there will be no sweeping sale of GM stock as the government proposed and which Du Pont contended would seriously affect the nation's economy. He called the proposal "unnecessarily harsh and punitive."

"Effective Means"

"The effective means," said La Buy in a 101-page decree, "is to divest Du Pont of the votes on such General Motors shares and pass such votes through pro rata to Du Pont stockholders and then to enjoy the exercise of such votes as lodge in Christiana and Delaware and in officers and directors of Du Pont, Christiana and Delaware, their spouses and dependents." Christiana Securities Co., and Delaware Realty & Securities Corp. are Du Pont family affiliates.

All voting rights presently held by Christiana and Delaware would be sterilized and voted by no one.

Without voting power, ruled La Buy, "and without directors on the General Motors Board, Du Pont is completely stripped of any potential power to penalize or reward the employees of GM in accordance with their demonstrated attitude toward Du Pont products."

Follows Du Pont Proposal
In general, La Buy's ruling follows a proposal made by Du Pont attorneys in hearings earlier this year.

Du Pont and its affiliates will be prohibited from acquiring any additional GM stock and from attempting to influence General Motors in any way.

In other provisions, La Buy ruled that:

No officer or director of Du Pont or the family corporations will be permitted to vote any GM stock. No officer or director of Du Pont or the family corporations will be permitted to serve as an officer of GM and GM will be prohibited from employing an employee of Du Pont or the affiliate companies.

Ike Ignores World Series, Goes Golfing

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Somewhere beyond the Santa Rosa Mountains and the Southern California desert the World Series was raging Friday, but President Eisenhower concentrated on a game of his own—golf.

While the baseball fans were in a frenzy in Chicago and Los Angeles, the President piloted his quiet electric golf cart along the well-manicured fairways of the El Dorado Country Club, four miles from La Quinta where the Chief Executive is staying.

The President's golf cart, a new one given to him upon his arrival here by the golf clubs of the desert, was equipped with a radio, but the President did not cut it on to hear the baseball game.

Eisenhower began playing about 9 a.m. with his La Quinta host, George E. Allen; Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Freeman Gosden, the veteran radio performer turned California business man.

Not even the intense heat—which reached 105 degrees by noon—interrupted the Chief Executive's game. He returned to La Quinta shortly after noon, wearing his coat and apparently untroubled by the desert sun.

It was 90 degrees in the shade, giving the President a good opportunity to bask out his cold.

Soviet Leader, Mao Confer; Pass Up Ballet

TOKYO (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Red China's boss Mao Tse-tung, deeply intent on their own Red summit talks, conferred for a fourth time Friday night.

They previously met on Wednesday and Tuesday. Apparently their talks had not been concluded when they met for the third time Friday afternoon, and they got together again Friday night after a reception.

So absorbed were the two men that they passed up a ballet in honor of Red China's 10th anniversary celebration they were to have attended.

Peiping radio gave no details of what was being discussed or even where they were meeting.

It was assumed, however, that Mao was being given a detailed account of Khrushchev's talks with President Eisenhower at Camp David and of his observations on his American trip.

A Peiping broadcast said the participants included Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Mikhail A. Suslov, Communist party secretary Chinese President Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai, Foreign Minister Chen Yi and Defense Minister Lin Biao.

This lineup indicated the talk was the most important of the three Khrushchev has had with the Red Chinese chief since arriving in Peiping last Wednesday.

In two speeches in Peiping Khrushchev has practically lectured Mao on the advisability of avoiding war and settling disputes by negotiation.

Tax Evader Fined

BALTIMORE (AP)—A $1,000 fine was imposed in Federal Court Friday on D. Lloyd Morris, 47-year-old Washington real estate salesman charged with failing to file a federal income tax return for 1952.

Morris did not contest the charge. The prosecution said he had a net income of $6,181 and should have paid $841 in tax. Through counsel Morris told Judge R. Dorsey Watkins he was beset with financial and personal problems.

4-H'er To Pay Debt Heifer Calf, Gift For Ike, Born To Holstein 'Pearl'

WALKERSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Quite a girl, this Pearl. There's apparently no end to her talents. Her admirers include no one less than the President of the United States.

Pearl's claim to fame was staked a couple of years ago.

As an immaculately groomed young Holstein heifer, Pearl walked away with top honors in her class at the Maryland State Fair. Her young owner, 9-year-old Sharon Kay Stauffer, was beside herself with joy.

The fair's officials already had decided to buy the winning heifer and ship it to President Eisenhower's farm as a gift. But when they approached Sharon Kay with a $1,000 check, the youngster gave them a tearful "no." She didn't want to part with her pet.

The family held a council. Sharon Kay would sell.

In stepped Eisenhower. No siree, he wouldn't want to come between Sharon Kay and Pearl.

Lye-Carrying Boy Sentenced To Year

BALTIMORE (AP)—"We are not going to have this New York situation in Baltimore," Magistrate Calvin A. Douglass told a youth Friday, and sentenced him to a year in Boys Village.

Douglass made the comment about juvenile gang wars in New York at a hearing for Robert Young, 16, charged with carrying a can of activated lye to a football game.

Police described the solution as a "deadly weapon."

Young, a student at Carver Vocational High School, said he heard a "group of boys" were going to get him as he watched a football game with Forest Park High Thursday.

He left about the fourth quarter, went to a grocery store, and bought the lye. He activated it by pouring in a soft drink, placed the can under his coat and returned to the game.

Police, however, had been alerted and arrested the boy before anyone was injured.

Glaros Found Guilty, Given Up To 15 Years

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Ex-convict Stephano Glaros was sentenced Friday to a maximum term of 15 years in the State Penitentiary for a $155,000 safecracking at a general store.

The 33-year-old Baltimore sandwich shop operator, who lived in suburban Harundale, was found guilty after a 1½ hour's deliberation by a Dorchester County Circuit Court jury.

Judges W. Laird Henry and Godfrey Child sentenced Glaros and set bond at $80,000 and Glaros was returned to the county jail. Chief defense counsel William O'Donnell of Baltimore did not indicate immediately whether the conviction would be appealed. He has 30 days to do so.

Glaros, with a halfback's build at just under 200 pounds, took the verdict and sentence with no sign of emotion. His wife came over and kissed Glaros, clean shaven and dressed in a dark blue suit.

The trial carried on for eight days, one of the longest criminal cases ever held here.

Glaros was accused of breaking in and stealing the money at the general store of George O. Powley of Wingate, 20 miles south of here, the night and morning of Nov. 7-8, Powley, who had an aversion for banks ever since he lost money in their during the financial crisis of 30 years ago, told police he had $159,000 in cash and $3,000 in government bonds in the safe.

However, the indictment listed $155,000.

Two other men were arrested along with Glaros shortly after the theft, but the grand jury did not indict them.

Glaros contended on the witness stand that he had been framed; that he had nothing to do with the burglary and that he did not know where the money was. Authorities have not recovered the loot.

State's Attorney C. Burnham Mace produced expert testimony by FBI agents linking Glaros to the crime. They testified that certain shavings found in the trunk of one of his cars compared with the concrete-like substance in the battered safe.

Authorities also testified they found charred sales slips and other office records from the Powley store, in the trash can in Glaros' yard.

More State Layoffs Laid To Steel Strike

BALTIMORE (AP)—State employment officials report that 65 more persons were laid off in secondary industries in Maryland during the week ending last Wednesday as a result of the steel strike.

The Department of Employment Security said Friday the total number of secondary layoffs since the steel strike began July 14 was 4,639, of which 410 were outside the Baltimore metropolitan area.

All of the latest layoffs were in the Baltimore area.

Secondary industries affected by the layoffs include railroads, motor freight, construction, non-striking segments of the primary metals industry, wholesale and retail trade and manufacturers of electrical equipment, lumber and wood products and stone, clay and glass products.

Grady Renews Plea For Special Session

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mayor J. Harold Grady Friday night asked Gov. Tawes once more to call a special session of the General Assembly to enact legislation to broaden the city's taxing powers.

At the same time, the mayor did not retreat from the key point in his proposed tax plan—the one per cent earnings tax that surrounding counties hotly oppose.

Grady wrote the governor asking that he "assert the necessary leadership" to help Baltimore out of its financial difficulties. "If you will not call a special session specifically for this earnings-tax legislation, the fact still remains a special session is essential for an alternate tax program," Grady said.

Cautious Stock Market Advances Irregularly

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market staged a mild advance over the disappointment and started ed turning up.

Another uncertainty, which also lost its sting, was the DuPont anti-trust decision due after all markets closed. Traders debated the possibilities of the decision which will govern disposition of the 63 million shares of general motors stock held by Du Pont.

General Motors also took the impeding decision in stride and closed up more than a point in its groups. American Motors and Chrysler firmed, and Ford and Studebaker - Packard lost fractionally.

The list reacted to the McDonnell Douglas stock sale, and the first slide. But the market soon got going.

Word Power Made Easy!

There are three things you must have to carry on a conversation. The first is ideas. The other two are a voice and words with which to express them.

If you are striving to achieve any kind of social or business success, you should be striving to increase your word power every day. The bigger your vocabulary, the greater your success will be.

Do you learn a new word every day and try to use it in conversation some time during the day? It is a practice that is followed religiously by some of the most successful men in the business world, and everyone can profit by following it.

Do you read a good book for at least five or ten minutes a day and long? when possible? Do you accept the challenge of the new words you come across in the daily perusal of your newspaper?

There is a Chinese proverb which says, "The palest ink is better than the most retentive memory." After you have consulted the dictionary in getting acquainted with any new word, write it down. Try writing the word in a sentence or two. You'll remember it longer and have a far better chance of making it part of your vocabulary.

There is an excellent little game you can play whenever you find yourself with time on your hands. You can play it when you're riding on the bus or streetcar or even while waiting for someone! All it takes is a pencil and scratch pad. Put down a word — any word will do — and then try to write down as many words of similar meaning as you can. For a starter, work on the verb "got." There are obtained; eld; fetched; took; became; acquired; earned; captured; reached; received, just to mention ten. How many more can you write down?

And for a few more overworked words try: Great, swell, grand, cute, sure, marvelous, give, and improve. Good substitutes for these words are a welcome relief in any conversation. Set up your word power. You'll find it's fun and most profitable.

IT'S A SMALL WORLD

Ever run into a friend in Tokyo, or meet one of your neighbors in Amsterdam? Maybe not—but such things are happening every day!

It makes you stop and think—the way this world is shrinking. It makes you wish that the men and women who live on opposite sides of the globe had more things in common.

There can be no more unifying force in the world than a common belief in God. And toward that ideal we are rapidly progressing. Christians the world over are feeling and expressing their unity of faith and purpose.

Sunday is World-Wide Communion Sunday. On that day, within the space of a few short hours, Christians in every land will reverently participate in the Lord's Supper which has been a mark of Christian faith for almost two thousand years.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

OAKLAND—Plans for an in-service training program for all Garrett County bus drivers were outlined at a recent meeting in Accident Elementary School. Robert Martin, transportation supervisor, presided.

Plans for the training program were first discussed last summer following the publication of a training guide for bus drivers formulated by a group of school superintendents and transportation officials from all parts of Maryland.

Martin indicated that five or six geographical centers to accommodate the 94 bus drivers would be set up in the county for the training sessions. Each driver will be required to attend three sessions. The programs which will include such matters as driver qualifications, responsibilities, school regulations, bus maintenance discipline and several other topics led by Bender and Martin. Speakers, films, and panel discussions will be utilized to make the meetings interesting as well as informative. First sessions will be held sometime during October.

Four ABL Engineers Pictured

Four engineers at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory are pictured in the latest issue of "The Hercules Mixer," monthly publication for all employees of the Hercules Powder Company.

The cutlines with the photograph refer to the four men as the "Rocketeers of ABL," the team responsible for the design and development of the third stage of Thor-Able III. Pictured are James F. Wood Jr., Glenn Kuebler, development engineer; John N. Sherman, now assistant superintendent of the Rocket Development Department, who was group supervisor, and Edward J. Skurzynski, project engineer.

"I was at Cape Canaveral to help with the installation of the third stage of the Thor-Able rocket," representing ABL and Hercules," Mr. Wood stated in the magazine article. "The thing that impressed me most was the absolute lack of confusion which you might expect to accompany an undertaking of the magnitude of the firing. Everything was ready on time, went absolutely according to schedule.

"I saw the shot from a spot out on the dunes about a mile from the launching site. I picked that point when I saw a motion picture crew setting up for action. The launching was, and forever will be, one of the big events of my life," Mr. Wood concluded.

Larger Quarters Planned For Area Forestry Unit

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved the plan to provide the district office of the State Department of Parks and Forests with additional space in the Court House.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason said the plan is to rent the present room being used and the one occupied by the Liquor Board on the third floor. The two offices adjoin each other and will give much needed space for the forestry unit. The large hall will also be utilized for office space and the commissioners will make the necessary repairs and install partitions needed.

The state agency had offered some weeks ago to pay $2,750 rental per year for the space.

Prior to this the agency had not been required to pay any rental. Commissioner Mason said the Liquor Board will be given space in the Court House basement.

He also informed the board that he has been notified that the county has earned $1,443.83 land interest on $300,000 of county tax funds which had been invested in U. S. government securities.

The next return on county investments will be received October 29 on $100,000 which has been invested. The Second National Bank is acting as the agent for the county funds. Commissioner Mason has been handling the financial transactions for the county board.

The Growing Farm Surplus

With the U. S. government already reeling under farm surpluses valued at more than $9 billion, the over-all output of American farmers in 1959 is expected to show a gain of almost 1 per cent from the 1958 total.

Despite this slight increase in production, net farm income will be lower this year than last — because of prices that are about 3 per cent lower, greater production costs, and a drop in direct government subsidies through the soil bank. Fortune magazine estimates the total at $11.8 billion compared to $13.1 billion last year. But the farmers' per capita yield in 1959 will still be above the average of a decade ago.

The explanation, of course, is that fewer farmers will share in the reduced financial return. The population of U. S. farms has dropped from 26 million to less than 21 million in 10 years. As a result, the per capita income of those who have remained on the soil is close to $1,000 this year, somewhat above the level of a decade ago.

As for that $9 billion stock of surplus crops, prospects are that U. S. farmers — becoming more efficient every year and depending more and more on labor-saving machinery as their number decreases — will continue to pile the total higher.

The strain on the government's finances is growing. In the present fiscal year Uncle Sam is spending nearly $3.5 million daily to store the surpluses that continue to defy his efforts at unloading.

The way out of this dilemma may be controversial. But the answer certainly is not to retain the setup that has created the storage problem, now costing $1.3 billion a year.

Somehow a way must be found to do something different than what has been done.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Price Is The Thing

As a practical proposition, what is called currency is a document issued by a government acknowledging that in exchange for it, the government guarantees to give a specific amount of money. But the value of that money is not specified.

The value of money is to be determined by its purchasing power for goods or services. What is a dollar worth? According to the current prices in the supermarket in which my family trades, it is worth about five loaves of bread; about four quarts of milk; about one and one half dozen eggs; a little less than a pound of top round beef.

Twenty years ago, it was possible to get about twice as much, but 20 years ago the costs of raw materials, of taxes, of labor were less. So it is reasonable to say that the American dollar buys about half as much as it did 20 years ago. Therefore, it is worth about half as much.

During this period, many nations which were broke have become rich and their currency which was deficient in value is now at par or better. Those countries were aided by the United States out of the earnings of its people paid in the form of taxes as well as in artificially higher prices for such commodities as coffee. Now some of those countries are able to compete with American goods and beat them even in the American market; they are the new rich nations.

I have here an advertisement issued by General Motors. It reads: "German Made/Germany's popular precision-built car, Opel offers refinements unique in a car priced as low as this one . . ."

Then it goes on to describe the Opel car further and advises that it can be bought from Buick dealers. The last line of the advertisement reads:

"The Big Small Car Built in Germany by General Motors — Sold and Serviced All Over America by Buick Dealers."

This and similar enterprises practically and soundly meet the present economic situation, but many new social problems are raised. The export of capital is a correct way to deal with the fact that American goods have outpriced themselves in world markets and if American capital wishes to compete in world markets, it has to manufacture where it will not be at a disadvantage.

It is easy to export capital, but labor cannot be exported. This then poses a very serious social problem. For instance, our pottery trade is being wiped out. By 1957, about 90 per cent of lightweight china tableware sold in this country was produced abroad. Those engaged in this industry must find jobs in some other, if such jobs are available. It is a question of keeping our population at work and not on relief; it is also a question of keeping our work force employed making consumers' goods and such capital goods as can be used for peaceful purposes. Are we only to have prosperity when we manufacture for war or for the prevention of war?

This is not a postponable question. It cannot be dealt with politically. Prime Minister Macmillan last March raised the issue of the lowering of United States import curbs when he was in this country discussing Anglo-American relations. He is said to have particularly objected to the Federal rejection of a low bid by the English Electric Company to supply turbines to a government-built dam at Greers Ferry, Arkansas.

From the standpoint of the free market, the British are correct. But three factors in this situation must be taken into consideration: 1. The wage differential; 2. The tax (Federal, state, local and hidden) differential; 3. The hidden subsidies which most European and Asiatic firms receive and which American firms do not receive.

Thus the competitive becomes non-competitive. Now Soviet Russia and the Iron Curtain countries wish to sell in this market without restriction. But their system of determining price is so different from ours that competition is impossible. They can fix any price and sell at any loss, because their transactions are governmental and their losses are made up out of taxes and monetary manipulations. In an authoritarian country, it is possible for the government to deprive its own people of their necessities in order to establish credits abroad. This, for example, was done by Stalin through Khrushchev in the Ukraine. How do we compete with that?

Heading For The Wall

No Agreements Reached In Ike-Khrush Talks

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — What really happened in the Khrushchev-Eisenhower talks may seem incredible to persons unfamiliar with the ways of diplomacy. But the truth is that not a single agreement was negotiated on any substantive issue that today is embraced by the term "cold war." Nor was any such agreement sought.

Nothing was negotiated on the status of West Berlin. Nothing was negotiated on the Soviet-inspired wars in Laos and on the border of India. Nothing was negotiated on the troublesome friction instigated by the Communists in the Middle East or the Far East. Nothing was negotiated on disarmament.

What, then, was accomplished? Actually, the results of the conference must be described only in such general phrases as a "better climate" or "improved atmosphere" in which in due time further negotiations can be undertaken on the substantive issues.

Two men who are powerful leaders in the world did get to know each other better. President Eisenhower's magnetic personality, his innate friendliness and sincerity, and his genuine desire to find a basis for ending the "cold war" did make an impression on the Soviet Premier. Mr. Eisenhower thought he detected signs of a flexibility of attitude in the personal conversation of Mr. Khrushchev that could conceivably help some day to get an agreement on some pending issues.

Each man thinks he gained something. Mr. Khrushchev believes, for instance, that he convinced the President he simply must back down eventually on West Berlin because, to the Soviet Premier, there is no other way out.

As evidence of a desire to read optimistic meanings into Mr. Khrushchev's professions of peacefulness, Mr. Eisenhower did give way on one point that perhaps isn't substantial. He chose to construe Mr. Khrushchev's remarks as an abandonment of threats and ultimatums previously uttered with respect to the West Berlin issue.

It wasn't a new disclaimer on the part of the Soviets. But the President thought it was wise to construe it as something new and formal. It means that the so-called objections to a "summit" conference, which up to now have been based on an insistence on some tangible progress in the negotiations on West Berlin, were abandoned by the President in the interest of moving the situation along a bit toward settlement and away from the crisis atmosphere.

What did Mr. Khrushchev give? He subscribed publicly to an ambiguously worded statement which was not in the communiqué itself issued last Sunday, but was revealed on Monday in the press conferences held in Washington and Moscow. The significant sentence, as given by the President to the Washington correspondents, was this:

"And, over and above this, we agreed in addition to what we said, the communiqué said, that these negotiations should not be prolonged indefinitely but there could be no fixed time limit on them."

This could mean anything. It could mean that, when the Soviets decide negotiations have gone on long enough, they can suddenly make a peace treaty with East Germany and say West Berlin is a part of East German territory. It would then be up to the Western powers to risk the use of force to protect their rights. On September 22, Secretary of State Herter, talking with the United Nations Correspondents Association in New York, said:

"We have no objections to their (the Soviets') making a treaty with East Germany, but in the making of that treaty with East Germany they have got to reserve the rights which are ours which they have no right to give over to the East Germans."

At the same meeting with the news correspondents, Mr. Herter said:

"The weakest issue of all is, as you know, still the question of PARKING CHISELERS—Washington police have been aware for a long time of some pretty devious devices to park cars at meters contrary to regulations which require they be moved after an hour. Now they're going to crack down on violators if they can figure out a way to do it.

Some motorists handfed dimes into the meters where their cars are parked near their place of employment or business. They get by for 80 cents a day instead of the $1.50-plus it costs in parking lots. Others watch out of windows for policemen who chalk the tires of their cars, then rush out and erase the chalk marks. Still others operate in "pools" trading their parking spaces after an hour or two.

The cops are now instructed to ticket cars each hour that they violate regulations—if they can be detected.

Sen. Everett Dirksen Is A Whiz At Politics But Not At Baseball

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Chicago White Sox managed to beat every other team in the American League to win the pennant. But were baffled recently by their home-state Senator, Everett Dirksen of Pekin, Ill.

Attending a luncheon for the White Sox, the Republican leader of the Senate modestly conceded that he knew "very little" about baseball. And then proceeded to prove that fact.

"I hear you boys are headed for the American League pennant," he told the visiting ballplayers. "Now where will the World Series be played, in Comiskey Park or Wrigley Field?"

The ballplayers exchanged startled glances. Finally one of them, convinced that Dirksen was really serious, explained that they would, of course, play part of the World Series in their own stadium, Comiskey Park, if they won the A. L. pennant.

"Wrigley Field, he explained, is the home grounds of Chicago's National League club, the Cubs.

The Illinois Senator has proved an able minority leader and Ike swears by him. But in this case he was not to be diverted from his attempt to prove his incapacity on baseball matters.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful," suggested Dirksen, "if the World Series wound up in a tie between the American and National League contenders, and they played it off at Soldiers' Field?"

That night, the White Sox were still so shaken by their encounter with Dirksen, they lost to Washington, 8-2.

Kiss-Off For A Friend

About two weeks before Premier Khrushchev arrived in the United States, the Italian government made friendly representations to the United States that it could be dangerous if Premier Segni, who was due to arrive two days after Khrushchev, got a kiss-off reception.

It was discreetly pointed out that if the U. S. government went all-out for Khrushchev and then was merely polite to Segni, repercussions in Italy might be serious. For in Italy, the Communist party is the second largest in the world and has been trying for years to end all Italian ties with the United States.

On the other hand, the Christian Democratic party, which Segni now heads, has stuck its neck way out for American friendship, and immediately agreed to U. S. missile bases on Italian soil. The Communists have been demanding that these bases be removed and the Christian Democrats kicked out of office.

The State Department agreed with the Italian government. But it reckoned without President Eisenhower. At first he wanted to go to California to play bridge and golf with his old friend, George Allen, even before the Italian Premier arrived. Segni's visit had been arranged one month before Khrushchev's, but Ike wanted to go anyway. Finally he agreed to remain until after the official White House luncheon for Segni.

However, there was little time for the two men to talk at the luncheon Wednesday, or for Segni to get a real report on the Khrushchev talks. Just 45 minutes after lunch, Ike pulled out for California. He took off at 3:36 p. m., even before the joint communiqué by himself and Segni could be issued at 5 p. m.

Note—Italian Communists are already boasting that the top Communist now rates higher in Washington than the top member of the Christian Democratic party.

Down-To-Earth Diplomacy

The Coon Rapids farm visit of Nikita Khrushchev was reported in detail, from the newspaper chaos to the temper of corn farmer Roswell Garst. But what wasn't reported is that in between the corn Khrushchev got some friendly advice on disarmament which he apparently followed during his talks with Eisenhower.

It happened in the car riding 70 miles from Des Moines to Coon Rapids. Garst, who had met Khrushchev in Moscow and has sold seed corn to the Soviet bloc countries, went to Des Moines to meet his famous visitor.

"You people can't afford heavy armament," Garst told the Russian Premier as they drove through the Iowa countryside. "We can afford it better than you. We just take 10 per cent out of luxuries and our automobiles. We've already got so many automobiles we can't find roads to drive them on or places to park them."

"But when you spend 18 per cent on armament, it comes out of utter necessities," Garst continued. "We want disarmament, but you'll gain more than we."

"But you'll have to go for international inspection and controls. And you'll make yourself a hero if you agree to go just as far as the United States on controls."

"If you give a little, you'll probably find that we'll give a little and we'll meet each other halfway," concluded Garst in his talk on "common sense" diplomacy.

Interesting fact is that Khrushchev did exactly what Garst suggested. He later agreed to international controls for disarmament. Hitherto, Russia had been adamant against them.

Nixon Bandwagon
Assistant Secretary of Commerce Henry Kearns has been bombarding his acquaintances with letters, urging them to get aboard the Nixon bandwagon.

"During 1960, a decision will be made regarding the leadership of this country," his letters declare. "Some of us have had the privilege of observing the increasing public appreciation of our great Vice President. We would like to take a part in a campaign to assure the election of Dick Nixon as our next President. If you agree with me in the importance of such action, would you let me know at your convenience? I would also invite you to suggest the names of acquaintances of yours who might have a similar interest."

Since World War II the United States has extended more than $72 billion in foreign aid and by the end of the present fiscal year the total will exceed $75 billion.

Contrary to the general public impression, approximately two-thirds of this is in economic aid, grants and loans. Military aid is a third of the total.

With the United States losing gold — so far $1 billion this year on top of $2½ billion last year — and running a deficit in its international payments, a reappraisal of the foreign assistance program is over due.

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, who is having more than his share of troubles, indicates there will have to be a reduction in foreign aid or a sharp increase in American exports.

It will have to be the former — a reduction in foreign aid.

Congress just pared President Eisenhower's requests for foreign aid by $700 million. The total voted in the bill just signed by the President calls for $3½ billion in economic and military aid.

Anderson figures the U. S. is spending currently much more than this — $5½ billion a year, of this $3 billion being for military aid.

In addition to the foreign aid and spending by the U. S. Treasury, private American sources are investing around $2 billion a year abroad. The result is an unfavorable balance of payments, with the U. S. losing gold and dollars.

Other countries also must increase their aid to underdeveloped countries.

Also, there will have to be a relaxation of the trade restrictions many countries still impose on imports from the U. S. These include tariffs and quotas, as well as restrictions on foreign exchange payments.

Dodger Home Runs Sink White Sox, 4-3, Even Series

Charley Neal Hits Pair To Pace Victory

Podres Is Winner; Essegian Blasts Pinch Circuit Blow

By JACK HAND

CHICAGO (AP)—A pair of towering home runs by Charlie Neal and a pinch-hit homer by Chuck Essegian brought the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-3 comeback victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday and squared the World Series at one game each.

Now the two clubs shift to Los Angeles where the third game will be played Sunday, starting at 4 p.m. Eastern Standard Time. Saturday is an open date for travel. The fourth and fifth games also will be played in California on Monday and Tuesday.

Neal, a willowy second baseman with zing in his swing, hammered two home runs off Bob Shaw, the White Sox' 18-game winner. Essegian, former Stanford football player who bounced from St. Louis to Philadelphia to the minors before the Dodgers got him in August, came through with a tremendous 400-foot-plus pinch blast that tied the score in the three-run seventh.

Humbled 11-0 Thursday, the Dodgers stumbled around the roomy confines of Comiskey Park for some time Friday before they finally untracked themselves.

Neal Climaxes Rally

Neal's first homer in the fifth halved the White Sox lead accumulated in the first inning. Essegian's blow into the upper deck in left center in the seventh tied it. Neal's 420-foot poke into the Chicago bullpen pen in center after Junior Gilliam walked, climaxed the three-run uprising and finished off Shaw.

The Sox weren't done yet. They came snarling back in the bottom of the eighth with a rally that fell just one run short. Sherm Lollar carrying the potential tying run, was cut down at the plate on a fine relay from left-fielder Wally Moon to shortstop Maury Wills to catcher Johnny Roseboro. Lollar, in speed motion, was out by at least 20 feet.

Trailing 4-2 going to the last of the seventh, the Sox suddenly brought the crowd to life with successive singles by Ted Kluszewski, Thursday's hero, and Lollar. Larry Sherry, who had taken over after starting Johnny Podres left for pinch-hitter Essegian, was in deep trouble with nobody out.

Lollar Thrown Out

Al Smith slammed a double to left center, easily scoring Earl Torgeson, running for Big Klu. But Lollar also tried to score all the way from first and was nailed at the plate. This immediately raised speculation as to whether Lollar should have tried to make it with nobody out and his team still trailing by one run.

Smith had gone to third on the throw to the plate but he died there when pinch-hitter Billy Goodman struck out on a high pitch and Jim Rivera fouled to Roseboro.

After a rainy, dark morning it cleared by game time and most of the game was played in sunshine or a light overcast.

The White Sox started out as though they expected to continue their workout of Thursday.

Luis Aparicio lined a double past the diving Gil Hodges down the right-field line to open the Chicago first. Aparicio easily scooted to third after Norm Larker caught Nellie Fox' fly. After Jim Landis walked, Kluszewski grounded to Neal, who fumbled a double-play ball long enough to miss any play except the one at first. As he threw out Kluszewski, Aparicio scored with the first run.

Lollar followed with a single just beyond the straining Neal into short right center, scoring the speedy Landis all the way from second. Despite a boot by Wills on Smith's grounder, that was all the Sox could do.

Dodgers Reach Shaw

The Dodgers reached Shaw for four hits in the first two innings but each time they started with two out and failed to score. There were two gone in the fifth when Neal hit his first homer into the lower stands in left about 360 feet from home plate.

They moved along like that with Chicago out front 2-1 until the seventh. Shaw once more retired the first two batters before Essegian came up to bat for Podres. He hit a 3-1 pitch deep into the upper deck in left tying the score.

Shaw lost his control momentarily after the homer and walked Gilliam, his only pass. It cost him dearly for Neal followed with that long drive into the Sox bullpen.

Neal was the first National Leaguer to hit two homers in a series game since Duke Snider of the Dodgers in 1955. Of course, a former National Leaguer, Kluszewski, did the trick Thursday for the White Sox.

From the clubhouse came word that Don Drysdale (17-13) would be Sunday's Dodger pitcher.

Manager Walter Alston refused to claim any advantage in going home to the Coliseum with its 251-foot left-field distance and freaky screen. He said other clubs had been able to hit the screen more often than the Dodgers.

Manager Al Lopez announced against Cleveland in the stretch.

TYING RUN OUT AT PLATE — Sherm Lollar, slow-footed Chicago White Sox catcher, is caught at the plate in the eighth inning of the second game of the World Series at Comiskey Park. He represented the tying run in Sox rally and was attempting to score from first base on Al Smith's double to left. Relay of the ball from left fielder Wally Moon to shortstop Maury Wills to catcher John Roseboro nailed Lollar wide of the plate. The Dodgers won the game 4-3 to even the series. (AP Photofax)

Colts, Giants, Cardinals Steelers Seek 2nd Wins

Baltimore Meets Bears Tonight

By United Press International

The Baltimore Colts, New York Giants, Chicago Cardinals and Pittsburgh Steelers are looking forward to boosting their 1959 records to 2-0 in four of the National Football League's weekend games. The Colts, defending league champions, are 6½-point choices to whip the Chicago Bears Saturday night at Baltimore before a capacity crowd of more than 55,000.

The league's five other weekend games will be played Sunday.

New York, defending Eastern Division champion, is favored over the Eagles by six points at Philadelphia. The Cardinals, who overwhelmed the Washington Redskins, 49-21, last week, entertain the Cleveland Browns and are 2½-point favorites. Pittsburgh, a 17-7 upset winner over Cleveland in its opener, plays host to Washington and is favored by 7½ points.

The Los Angeles Rams, who opened with a 23-21 loss to New York, are favored over the Forty-Niners by four points at San Francisco. The Packers are one-point choices to beat the Detroit Lions at Green Bay. The Packers opened their campaign with a 9-6 upset triumph over the Bears.

Baltimore opened its season by rallying for a 21-9 victory over Detroit. The Colts have won their last four games with the Bears and have swept their last nine home games.

Odds Shift To Favor Dodgers

NEW YORK (UPI)—When the Los Angeles Dodgers evened the World Series at 1-1 by edging the Chicago White Sox in the second game, they forced a switch in the betting odds and became favorites to win Sunday's third game and the series.

The Dodgers now are 13-11 favorites to win Sunday's game and 11-10 choices to capture the series. The next three games will be played in Los Angeles. Before Friday's game the White Sox were 13-10 favorites to win it and 11-5 choices to take the best-of-seven classic.

West Virginia Hunting Season Gets Underway

Squirrels, Grouse, Turkeys In Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Squirrels, grouse and turkeys were the object of about 100,000 hunters as West Virginia's 1959 hunting season got underway Saturday.

Fairly clear weather with temperatures in the high 50s or mid-60s was forecast for most areas, but some generally scattered showers also were possible. The season closes Jan. 2.

Some rain wouldn't disappoint most hunters, because the state has been extremely dry in recent months. There had been speculation the season opening would be delayed because of lack of rain.

However, a good rainfall this week eased the situation. But unless more rain arrives within 10 days, Conservation Commissioner Warden Lane indicated he might be forced to halt hunting temporarily because of the forest fire danger.

The Commission predicted that 65 and 75 hunters would suffer some type of accident before the season closes.

Ten to 15 deaths, five of them from heart attacks, also can be expected if records in previous years are a criterion.

The commission pointed out that about one-half of the annual accidental shootings are suffered by squirrel hunters. While the number of all hunting accidents is declining each year, the percentage of squirrel hunters involved has remained fairly constant or has climbed slightly.

The commission strongly urged parents to keep their children from hunting unless they are accompanied by an adult.

From 30 to 50 per cent of hunting accidents each season can be traced to young hunters ranging from 9 to 18, the commission said.

Faces Tartar In Iowa Today

LSU Meets Baylor; Terps Vs. Syracuse

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer Northwestern's Wildcats, dreaming dreams of a Rose Bowl trip after their season-opening rout of Oklahoma, face a strong Iowa team Saturday that could be a king-sized spoiler.

Iowa went to the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, so can't return. But the defending Big Ten champions can throw a big block into Northwestern's budding ideas of its first Rose Bowl appearance in a decade.

The game at Iowa City is the day's top college football contest on a schedule where some of the surprise teams of last week will have to "put up or shut up" against rugged competition.

Iowa last Saturday dispelled Coach Forest Evashevski's early season moaning by whipping California, its opponent last New Year's Day, 42-14.

Iowa will have to stop Coach Ara Parseghian's club that lambasted Oklahoma a 45-13 and stamped itself as a real threat for the Big Ten title. The 'Cats are ranked No. 2 in the Associated Press poll and Iowa is fifth.

Another pair in the top ten, Clemson (No. 6) and Georgia, is the kingly of the Atlantic Coast Conference, beating chief contender North Carolina, then coming back to whip Virginia Tech, one of the best in the Southern Conference, behind quarterback Harvey White.

Top-ranked Louisiana State meets its third Southwest Conference foe in a row, facing Baylor at Shreveport, La. The Bayou Bengals took care of the first two play — Rice and Texas Christian.

Television viewers can watch beginning at 4:30 p.m. (EST). The Longhorns beat Nebraska 20-0, and Maryland 26-0. Cal beat Washington State 20-6 before its Iowa loss.

Third-ranked Mississippi should should have an easy time against Memphis State. Army (No. 4), the East's best, takes its explosive attack to Illinois.

Notre Dame (No. 8), which scored an easy victory over North Carolina, plays Purdue, which tied UCLA in its only start.

Area Towns Experience Water Shortage TV Today

The rains of Hurricane Gracie did much good over this section, but there are some communities still experiencing a water shortage.

Hyndman, where restrictions were placed on the use of the town's water supply two weeks ago, has a full reservoir.

Before the rain, which totaled 3.6 inches at Hyndman, the reservoir was 20 inches below the spillway. Now it is overflowing.

At Oakland, Henry McComas Jr., chairman of the town's water committee, pointed out that municipal workers are still hauling tank truck loads of water from Herrington Manor to supplement the wells.

R. E. Weber, weather observer at Oakland, said only 1.73 inches of rain fell there during Gracie. This was the lowest official total reported in this area.

McComas said the ground has soaked up the rainfall, which came down during a 30-hour period, and it is too soon to tell if the town's wells will have benefited.

At Barton, Councilmen Richard Fram and James O'Rourke reported that Gracie's rain didn't do much good as far as that community is concerned.

Barton's reservoir has been dry for some time and within the last month, a bulldozer has cleaned out the bottom.

The councilmen said mud had accumulated to a depth of six to eight feet and the blow-off valve couldn't be operated.

But now, the stones and mud have been removed from the valve and it has been cleaned.

O'Rourke, who is the water commissioner, said the rain from the hurricane just put two feet in the reservoir, just about enough to enter the pipe leading to the town.

The reservoir is located on Butcher's run above Barton and the two councilmen reported the ground was so dry, there was little runoff after the absorption.

The town has been working on the reservoir, cleaning it out with a bulldozer. A spokesman said the rain from Gracie filled it up, but it was drained to get rid of the mud.

Water from wells is the sole source of supply at this time.

Bayard has been resorting to a spare well that was drilled several years ago for dry periods.

H. R. Fulk Sr., weather observer at that Grant County community, reported that the rain

Grahamtown Water Damage Discussed
J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, conferred with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday on a water damage and sewage problem in the Grahamtown section of Georges Creek.

Dowling said that seven homes in that area have suffered from water damage due to the clogged condition of the stream and also from sewage which overflows from the Frostburg section.

After checking into the matter with Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, and Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, it was decided that the matter was the responsibility of the property owners involved. Clark said the property owners have control over the stream at that point and the county is not responsible.

Hardy County Man Fined After Hunting Accident

A 72-year-old Hardy County hunter was fined heavily Thursday when he was tried on charges stemming from his shooting of another Hardy County man last week.

Jess Whetzel, of the Wardensville area, was arrested by Conservation Officer Bart Townsend after Perry Strawderman, 54, was hit by a shotgun blast.

The incident occurred last Friday at Green Valley Clinic, Wardensville, for wounds received when the No. 4 shot from the 12 gauge shotgun hit him in the face, hands and chest.

Justice of the Peace Maurice Beall at Wardensville, fined Whetzel $200 on a charge of negligently shooting Strawderman and added another $25 fine for hunting out of season.

Justice Beall also imposed a 30-day jail sentence which he suspended.

Townsend was assisted in the investigation by Conservation Officer Alvin Lewis and State Trooper Jack Baker of Moorefield.

They said Whetzel apparently mistook Strawderman for a fox squirrel.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN—I've been married 15 years to a man I trusted and considered a fine father and husband. I always laughed at jokes about traveling men and said it couldn't happen to me.

Today he received a letter from a senorita he met while conventioning in Mexico City. She's coming this way and would like to meet his family. He showed me the letter and I almost had a heart spell.

He met this girl in the hotel jewelry shop. She helped select the earrings he brought me.

Now things are beginning to fall into place. When he comes in off the road he's so tired he falls into bed without a decent hello. I used to think traveling knocked him out. Now I think it's the night life.

What shall I do about this girl? Am I magnifying things?—33.

DEAR ANN: Your imagination is indeed working overtime. If this enchilada had a romantic interest in your husband she would not be writing to his home asking to meet his family. And if there had been anything between them, you would not have seen the letter.

Men who travel work hard. Some may have an assortment of dolls tucked away in key cities, but most traveling men are too busy trying to make a living.

Tell your husband you'd be pleased to have the girl for coffee. Skip the accusations. You could create a problem where none exists.

DEAR ANN: The letter from the 16-year-old girl who couldn't talk to her mother hit home. I couldn't talk to my mother either—but for a different reason.

Mother was the clearing house for all the neighborhood gossip. No information was safe. I could die when I think of the intimate things she told members of her bridge club, my aunts, the neighbors and even some of my teachers.

To make matters worse, Mother was a great guesser. She'd get a few facts and add to them like mad. I had to look up my diary, hide my personal letters and make phone calls from the drug store.

So, please, Ann, tell these mothers who feel hurt that maybe their daughters won't talk to them because they've learned that Mother can't keep anything to herself.—BETRAYED

DEAR ANN: Last night my husband and I had dinner at his mother's. After dinner she went into the living room and said she was too tired to do dishes. This was O.K. with me. I felt she was entitled to rest after having cooked for us all.

What burned me up is her fat daughter plopped down in the living room and talked to the men, while I did the dishes myself. This isn't the first time I've been stuck.

My husband says his sister has a hot temper and it isn't worth a fight. He advised me to say nothing for Mom's sake and be a good sport. I think I should speak up next time, but I don't know what to say.—DISHPAN HANDS

DEAR DISHPAN: I see no reason for you to let your sister-in-law take advantage of you. Simply say: "That was a delicious meal. Mother, Hortense and I will do the dishes and you can relax."

Clark Denied Release From State Institution

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday denied the plea of Edward William Clark of Lonaconing, who sought his release from Patuxent Institution as a defective delinquent.

Clark was sent to the institution in 1955 after being found guilty in Circuit Court here on the assault charge. In 1957 he received a hearing before the court here on a petition to obtain his release, but was refused.

Noel Speir Cook was attorney for Clark, while State's Attorney James S. Getty represented the state.

Discuss Cleanliness

LONDON (UPI)—A team of medical investigators from Aberdeen University said Friday that surgeons place too much confidence in scrubbing, up before an operation. An article in the British Medical Journal said the investigators found that bacteria remained on the surgeon's hands after scrubbing and "leaked" through holes in rubber gloves. They said punctures were found in 30 per cent of gloves worn by operating room staffs during tests.

$90,000 Store Building Is Planned Here

Construction Will Begin Next Week

The construction of a store building on the site of old St. Paul's Lutheran Church is expected to get under way next week.

The No. 100 Baltimore Street Corporation yesterday secured a permit from the City of Cumberland for the $90,000 structure which will provide quarters for two modern stores facing on Baltimore Street.

The Darling Shop, now located across the street at 123 Baltimore Street, has leased the first 30 feet frontage of the new building and the entire second floor.

Secures Permit
No announcement has been made of the tenant who will occupy the other 20 feet fronting on Baltimore and North Centre streets.

Officials yesterday told City Engineer C. R. Nuzum they have no plans for a basement for the new building, which will occupy all of the 40-by-100-foot site.

The building will be of brick veneer construction and will have a built-up roof.

The permit was secured by Leon J. Levitz, Pottstown, Pa., president of the 100 Baltimore Street Corporation.

Plans have been prepared by Charles Bixler, Pottstown architect, and the Leonard Pevar Company, Unionville, Chester County, Pa., will be the contractor.

Site Is Cleared
The property, used for almost 165 years by Lutherans of this city, was sold late in June to the 100 Baltimore Street Corporation by the vestry of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Stamps attached to the deed indicated that the purchase price for the old church property was about $125,000.

Demolition of the site was completed several weeks ago.

37,345 Counted Among County's Eligible Voters

Downward Trend Still Continues

The downward trend in the number of registered voters in Allegany County continued through September and the number of voters stood at 37,345 as of October 1, according to John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

The qualified voters as of October 1 included 36,961 white persons, 383 Negroes and one person of Oriental extraction. There were 21,075 Republicans, 10,623 Democrats, 8,288 men and 7,712 women; 258 who declined political preference, 181 men and 77 women; 10 Socialists, six men and four women, and two members of other parties, one man and one woman.

There were 19 new registrants during September. Included were 11 Democrats, four men and seven women, and eight Republicans, five men and three women. Offsetting these were the deletion of names of 39 voters who had died. Twenty-one, 12 men and nine women, were registered Democrats, and 18, 15 men and only three women, were Republicans. Another four voters requested removal of their names so they can register elsewhere.

Five persons changed political affiliation from Republican to Democratic. Two were men and three women. Seven other voters transferred from one district and precinct to another and seven others only changed their address.

The Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement is open for registration of prospective new voters from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. Mondays through Fridays.

Pearl, Famous Cow, Exhibited At Fair Here

Pearl, the Holstein cow, whose first heifer calf is headed for President Eisenhower's Gettysburg, Pa., farm was exhibited at the 1958 Cumberland Fair.

She was brought here by Doty Remsburg of Frederick.

Two years ago Pearl was adjudged the top junior heifer calf at the Timonium State Fair. The State Fair Board decided it would be a nice gesture to give a Maryland heifer to President Eisenhower for his Gettysburg farm. So they offered Sharon Kay Stauffer of Walkersville in Frederick County $1,000 for Pearl.

When Sharon wept at the prospect of losing Pearl, even for $1,000, the President of the United States agreed to wait until Pearl had her first calf and accept that instead. The birth this week fulfills that promise.

Retired Barber Marks Birthday

The retired barber is in the best of health and attends services every Sunday at McKendree Methodist Church, where he served as treasurer for many years.

LaVale Fire Unit Plans Open House

Prevention Week Will Be Observed

The LaVale Volunteer Fire Company is going all out in the observance of Fire Prevention Week which will open tomorrow.

Edward Young is chairman of the fire prevention committee. He said last night that tomorrow "open house" will be held at the fire hall.

A feature of the afternoon will be rides for kiddies on the pumper from 2:30 to 5. On Monday, a public address system will be hooked up on the pumper which will cover the community on fire prevention measures.

At 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, there will be a demonstration on methods of combating various fires under actual conditions. Included will be fuel pit fires, and hose and ladder evolutions. A film will also be shown. The demonstration will be held on the parking lot.

On Thursday at 8 p. m. the public will be invited to attend a movie at the fire hall. Sparky will be present to demonstrate fire prevention measures and fire dangers.

Sparky and Smokey will appear in person at outdoor movies at 7:30 p. m. Friday. On Saturday evening a free public square dance will be held at the fire hall beginning at 8 p. m. Displays will be exhibited in the hall.

The week's activities will wind up on Sunday, October 10 when volunteers of the community will attend their respective churches in groups.

During the week a large float will be touring the community and will depict the wrath of fire and its results. Mr. Young said there will be other displays of fire prevention materials.

Victim Of Burns Still 'Critical'

William K. Clingerman, 10, of near Great Cacapon, W. Va., is reported in "critical" condition at War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, where he was admitted Thursday with burns suffered when a fire swept through a room at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Loretta Clingerman, a widow, who died in the fire.

The boy is suffering from burns over 30 per cent of his body. Flames were confined to one room of the house, located on West Virginia Route 9 in Morgan County. Origin of the fire is undetermined.

Truck Rolls Over; Driver Is Hurt

A 44-year-old Altoona, Pa., truck driver was injured yesterday afternoon when the truck he was driving went out of control north of Bedford on U. S. Route 220 and rolled over.

George W. Hart complained of hip and shoulder injuries but was not hospitalized, according to Pennsylvania State Police, who said damage to the truck amounted to $1,200.

The accident occurred at 3:15 p. m. (EST) as Hart was driving north along Black Oak Ridge. While attempting to pass an auto traveling in the same direction, he lost control of the truck, which ran off to the left of the highway and rolled over. The accident occurred seven and a half miles north of Bedford.

Withdraws Appeal

Lewis Stevenson, 489 Nash Street, withdrew an application to build a seven-foot fence around his home, according to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Globe Trotter Series Visits Five Cities

Cumberland Stops Planned Thursdays

Cumberland is one of five cities which the Globe Trotter series of travel and adventure around the world will visit for four successive weeks starting with the week of October 12.

The Cumberland visits, starting on Thursday, October 15, and continuing for four Thursdays, are being sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club at the Fort Hill High School auditorium.

The itinerary for the travelogues calls for visits to Fredericksburg, Md., Roanoke, Va., each Tuesday, Durham, N. C., each Wednesday, Cumberland each Thursday and Pikesville near Baltimore, each Friday. All of the programs except in Durham are under the sponsorship of Kiwanis clubs, according to J. D. Eisenberger, president of the local club.

Each of the programs will be a full-color sound motion picture described by the men who made them. The travelers will be able to regulate the sound so they can make their personal observations whenever they consider them appropriate.

The series will begin at Fort Hill at 8:15 p. m. October 15 with the Far North, featuring Rear Admiral Donald B. MacMillan. Japan Today is scheduled for October 22 with Gordon Palmquist as the narrator. Then will follow Russia. School Boards Told Of New Finance Plan

State Would Hike Its Share Of Costs

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Proposals that the state carry a heavier share of school operation costs and lend more help in school construction were outlined Friday before boards of education from Baltimore City and the 23 counties.

Dr. Wesley N. Dorn, supervisor of instruction for the Department of Education, outlined the so-called Mort plan which calls for the state to contribute 50 per cent of the cost of school operations.

At present, under a complicated system based on number of pupils and teachers and the subdivision's tax rate, the state is paying about 36 per cent of the cost of running schools. It supports a so-called "minimum program" of education instead of contributing on the basis of the total cost of education.

Would Fix State Share
The plan developed over the past two years by a study commission utilizing the services of Dr. Paul R. Mort of Columbia University calls for this share to be stabilized at 50 per cent.

Five per cent of this amount would be in teacher retirement and security costs already paid by the state and teachers. The state would contribute an additional 45 per cent of the cost of teacher salaries, classroom expenses and other operation costs on a state-wide basis.

The pattern of aid to counties would vary with their individual wealth and their pupil needs. The plan calls for property assessments to be equalized by computing real estate at 60 per cent of true value instead of widely varying assessments as are now in practice.

Not Yet Ready

Wealthier counties with a lower cost-per-pupil average than some poorer counties would receive less state aid per pupil in the total program.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of education, emphasized that the plan is still in the discussion stage and is not ready for presentation to the Legislature. The State Board of Education has not even endorsed it yet, he said.

It was stated that the state's contributions to schools in the past has fluctuated between 17 and 41 per cent of the total cost, and the purpose of the Mort plan is to balance and stabilize it.

Delayed Runoff To Help Dams

Delayed runoff from Wednesday's rains in the Evitts Creek watershed is expected to have a significant effect on the Lake Koon storage reservoir.

The level of the lake rose about a foot from 12 feet, two inches, during the rain which dumped 3.4 inches of water in the area.

But Franklin J. Blaney, sanitary engineer, said that water was still pouring into the lake from tributary streams Thursday and that the lake should rise from three to four feet as a result of the downpour.

Much of the watershed consists of forest land which soaks up moisture like a sponge and releases it for some time after a rain.

County Zoning, Planning Unit May Be Created

State Agency Asked To Help

County Commissioner John T. Mason yesterday took the first step toward the possible creation of an Allegheny County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Mr. Mason instructed Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners, to write James J. O'Donnell, state planning director, to request him to come here to assist Allegheny County in the formation of County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Election District 29 in LaVale is the only unincorporated community in Allegheny County which now has zoning regulations. They were approved in a public referendum in June 1957 and have been effective since May 1, 1958.

There has been much discussion about the need for adequate planning and zoning in various suburban areas of the county where considerable home building is now in progress. This would include much of McMullen Highway between Cumberland and Keyser, Baltimore Pike, Bedford Road, North Branch and some areas near Frostburg and Westernport.

The State Planning Department over which Mr. O'Donnell serves, is an agency which was revised appreciably by Senate Bill 420, now included as Chapter 543 of the 1959 Acts of the General Assembly.

Concerning state planning, Senate Bill 420 used the following language:

"It shall be the purpose of the State Planning Department to function as the Governor's staff agency in planning matters, and to prepare, recommend and keep up-to-date a balanced, integrated program for the development and effective employment of the natural and other resources of the state, in order to promote the health, safety and general welfare of its citizens."

Rabies Test On Chipmunk Is Negative

Laboratory tests have shown that a chipmunk which bit three West Side boys several weeks ago was not rabid, according to Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

The tests, he said, gave Allegheny County a clean slate on rabies, as no animal, domestic or wild, has been found with a proved case so far this year.

But before the final word came late this week, preventive steps had to be taken to guard against the possibility that the animal which bit the boys was suffering from the dread disease.

The chipmunk died soon after it bit the youngsters and its head was sent to Hagerstown for examination.

Microscopic tests there disclosed one cell which resembled a Negri body but this was the only suspicious sign found.

In view of the suspicion of rabies, preventive treatment was started while animal inoculations were made at Baltimore. Treatment was halted after the negative results were reported.

Filter Plant To Welcome Visitors

You don't need a special invitation to visit Cumberland's water filtration facilities at Lake Gordon.

Franklin J. Blaney, sanitary engineer, said visitors are always welcome and that the operator on duty will make every effort to show the plant to visitors.

Formal open houses are tentatively planned at the filter and sewage treatment plants this fall.
